PUBLIC NOTICE

The Pennsylvania State University has submitted a Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection Sewage Facilities Act 537 Planning Module to College Township, State College Borough, and Ferguson Township. This Planning Module addresses the installation of a reuse water distribution system at the University.

Penn State is currently undergoing master planning efforts for a water reuse system in order to further promote sustainability at its University Park campus. In the next several years, the University is planning to upgrade its wastewater treatment plant to produce Class A reuse water for non-consumption use, primarily irrigation and cooling. A new distribution system will also be installed to convey reuse water to various end users within the University. The reuse water distribution system will be installed throughout the University Park campus and will be located entirely within previously disturbed areas. Some of the distribution piping has already been installed in conjunction with recent construction projects to reduce cost and construction impacts. The University is working with PA DEP to establish retroactive planning level approval of the piping already installed, as well as the future piping that is to be installed. The reuse water system distribution system will be located within parts of College Township, Ferguson Township, and State College Borough. Overall, it is anticipated that less than 10 acres will be disturbed for the completion of this reuse system.

A copy of the Sewage Facilities Planning Module, which includes further details on this project is available for inspection at the following locations:
